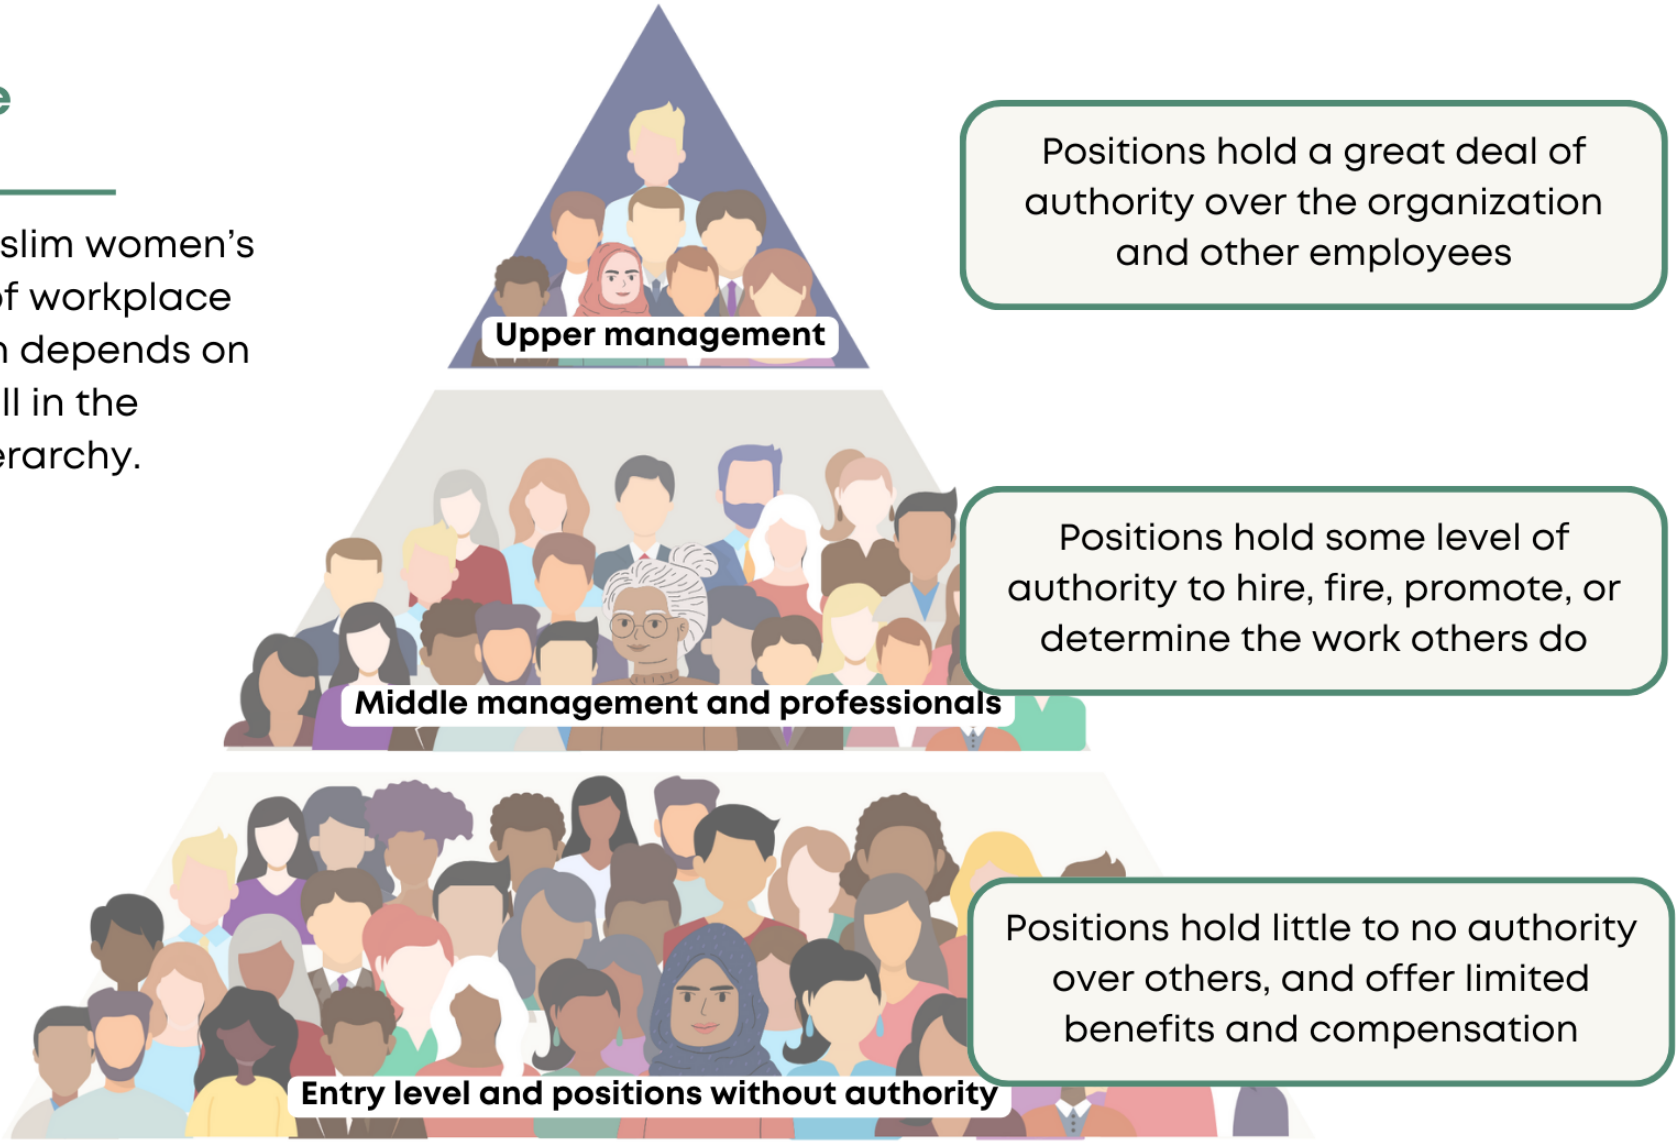
Workplace Hierarchy

Canadian Muslim women's experiences of workplace discrimination depends on where they fall in the workplace hierarchy.



Positions hold a great deal of authority over the organization and other employees

Positions hold some level of authority to hire, fire, promote, or determine the work others do

Positions hold little to no authority over others, and offer limited benefits and compensation